AMERICANS ARE TOO PROUD

Thousands of Unemployed in United States Will Not Fill Crying Need for Domestic Service

BY FREDERICK J. HASKIN

A momentous effect of the war that has been very little noticed is the decrease of the American servant to the point where that rare and valuable creature seems to be seriously threatened with extinction. This is not fanciful. Careful students of the situation are predicting that the all around household menial will have to be replaced by skilled workers in various lines. Instead of having one maid to muss through all of your work, from cooking to window-washing, you will be visited regularly by expert cooks, bedmakers, laundrymen, dish-washers, doorknob polishers. There is today in Washington, D. C., a man who makes quite a remunerative profession of washing pet dogs for society women. He shows the possibilities of specialization in domestic service.

Immigration Reduced

Reduced immigration is the principal cause of this shortage in help. It is estimated that 72 per cent fewer servants came into the United States last year than the year before. Employment agencies cannot fill their orders. Clumsy Scandinavian peasant girls, unable to speak a word of English, are literally received at Ellis Island with open arms and offered salaries that make their jaws drop and their eyes widen. Very few of them ever get as far west as Chicago.

Female help is scarce, but male servants are almost unattainable. Never before has there been such a shortage of valets and butlers. Gouty

Germans Clamber Aboard and Fight Britons Before Double Eagle Is Raised

SHIP EVADES HOSTILE CRAFT

Regular Travel Lanes Are Avoided and Boat Puts Into Norfolk Unharmed

DISPOSITION PUZZLES AUTHORITIES

If Boat Was Used by Germans as Armed Raider It Will Have to Be Interned

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 1.—A message thrown from a porthole of the British steamer Appam to a United Press representative this afternoon revealed the name of the German raider whose prize, crew had brought the liner into port, as the Moewe, and gave the names of seven British steamers sunk by the Moewe and told that she had started the remarkable career of raiding from the Kiel canal passing entirely through the British naval lines.

The ships sunk by the Moewe, the message said, were:

Cowbridge, with 6,000 tons of coal, January 11.

Farringford, with 4,000 tons of copper ore, January 11.

Drummondy, 5,000 tons of coal, January 13.

Author, 8,000 tons of general cargo, January 13.

Trader, cargo of sugar, January 13.

Ariadne, with 5,000 tons of wheat, January 13.

Clan McTavish, with 10,000 tons of general cargo, including a large cargo of beef, January 15.

The Moewe is described as a tramp steamer. She approached the Appam flying a British flag, the passengers declared. As she halted the Appam, she ran down the British flag and pulled up the German colors.

At the same time false sides built upon her to make her appear as a tramp were lowered and she showed a full armament of ten-inch guns.

It was said that she came from Kiel canal and had stolen through the entire British North sea fleet and the British vessels in the Atlantic. During this entire cruise she was disguised as a tramp and flew a Swedish flag.

She captured the Appam sixty miles north of the Madeira islands.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 1.—Bringing with her one of the most remarkable stories in naval history, the British liner Appam, suposed to have been sunk off the African coast, arrived here today flying the German flag, a Teuton war prize and with her passengers and crew prisoners.

The Appam was captured by a German commerce raider somewhere off the Canary islands, according to the best information from passengers. There was a bloody fight on her decks, during which two men were killed and several injured. The most thrilling fiction story of the days of pirates has never equalled that told by men and women on the Appam of how the liner was overhauled, how stout German sailors came clamboring upon her decks and clashed with the Britons.

When the British flag lowered and the double eagle at her masthead, the Appam then set out on one of the most remarkable voyages in history, which ended here when she put into port.

The entire Atlantic is hostile waters to the Germans. But the Appam eluded British naval vessels, avoided the regular passenger lanes on which she would have encountered British merchant ships without number and slipped into this neutral port safe and sound.

The Appam has about 300 prisoners aboard in charge of the German prize crew of twenty-two men. They are from British merchant ships. It was first believed the Appam had been captured by a submarine, but passengers and members of the crew declared the Appam had been taken by a raider. It was not even known that a German ship was at

GREAT ZEPPELIN FLEET CONTINUES RAIDS ON ENGLAND

Six or Seven Dirigibles Are Reported in Bombardment of Eastern Counties Last Night

RAIDS "FEELING OUT" PROCESS?

Opinion Is German Craft Are Determining Strength of Defenses Before Making Big Raid

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Fifty-four persons were killed and sixty-seven injured in Monday night's Zeppelin raid over Derbyshire, Staffordshire, Lincolnshire, and Leicestershire, it was officially announced this afternoon.

Excepting the raid on London on October 13, 1915, when fifty-five persons were killed and 115 injured, the Monday night invasion by Zeppelins was the most disastrous air attack in history. The six or seven Zeppelins mentioned in the official statement given out in London last night are believed to have rained down many tons of explosives at British munitions plants, factories and docks.

The total casualties as officially reported in eighteen Zeppelin and aeroplane raids on England since the beginning of the war, is, killed 224; wounded 462.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The eastern, northeastern and midland counties of England were raided last night by six or seven dirigibles, the largest fleet that ever participated in an air bombardment over England. The press bureau thus far has given out no detailed statement of the casualties, reporting merely that a number of bombs were dropped. The raid was the third by German aircraft in little less than a week.

German aviators have been observed in the maneuvers with the Zeppe-

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Feb. 1.—Colonel House is carrying back to Washington some mild criticism of the administration on the ground that it makes its diplomatic moves with too much noise, it was reported today.

He was told, for instance, that Ambassador Penfield at Vienna, belivd his work was hampered because press reports of instructions he was to receive reached Vienna and were published, before he received the instructions from Washington.

ALLIED EFFORTS IN PERSIA BALKED IS TURK CLAIM

Russians Checked Before Erzerum While British at Kut El-Amara Are Desperate

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The Turkish forces have halted the Russian advance upon the fortress of Erzerum and have checked all attempts of the British relief force to reach the garrison surrounded at Kut-El-Amara, Constantinople reports today.

No Russian force has approached within several miles of the Erzerum forts on the east, Constantinople reported. Both armies are suffering intensely from the severe cold.

In Mesopotamia the situation of the British force surounded in Kut-El-Amara for more than two weeks, is becoming desperate. Since British relief troops were driven back a week ago they have not renewed their attempt to reach the city.

MANN ACT CASE MAY GROW FROM DIVORCE ACTION

Sigurd Bakke Alleges That His Wife Eloped to St. Paul with Clarence Klientzer

SHE APPLAUDED HIS BEATING

Husband Declares Wife and Sister Encouraged Two Men to Thrash Him when He Ordered Them Out

Federal action under the Mann act was rumored today following the filing of a divorce petition by Sigurd Bakke, 2201 George street, a rubber mills employe, against his wife Emma, by Arthur Holmes, Bakke's atorney. Bakke recounts a long list of wrongs suffered at the hands of his wife, ending, he alleges, when she sold all the furniture in the home and went to St. Paul with one Clarence Klientzer.

Bakke alleges Klientzer and another man beat him and drove him from home on January 22, 1915, when he came home and found them with Mrs. Bakke and her sister, and that the women applauded the thrashing.

Bakke also says Mrs. Bakke beat him with a stove poker and called him "a little runt," "to his shame and embarrassment."

The climax of Bakke's wrongs, he declares, came on January 25, 1915, when Mrs. Bakke sold the furniture and eloped with Klientzer.

The Bakkes were married in February 1913. They have one child, Bernard, aged three years. The husband asks custody of his son.

WOLFE DEFENDS FOREIGN POLICY IN OPENING MEET

Five Hundred Democrats Hear La Crosse Leader at Milwaukee Convention

BURNS FOR DISTRICT DELEGATE

Chairman Wolfe Is Also Named as Candidate for Delegate at Large

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 1.—Five hundred democrats were present this morning when the state convention called to choose candidates for delegates to the national convention, opened in Plankinton hall, Auditorium.

William Wolfe, La Crosse, was named chairman of the meeting. In his opening address, Mr. Wolfe said that the democratic party must shoulder the work of upholding the foreign policy of the administration. He indorsed Wilson and defended the Underwood tariff.

A fight developed in the caucus held by the Fourth district delegates to nominate delegates to be presented to the convention. Jacob Litza, Jr., and J. L. O'Connor were chosen. It was announced that Fred Grutza and William O'Malley, the other two candidates, would run independently as a result of the choice.

Other candidates for delegates recommended by causes are:

Fifth—A. J. Schoenecker, Jr., R. J. Schmidtz, Milwaukee.

First—A. F. Stahl, Kenosha; Steve Weber, Waukesha.

Third—Edward J. Reynolds, Dane county; Frank Jenks, Iowa county.

Tenth—Ferris M. White, Pierce county; John B. Piotoski, Chippewa county.

Eleventh — George C. Cooper, Douglas county; W. M. Ryan, Taylor county.

Ninth—C. S. Wilcox, Brown county; T. H. Ryon, Outagamie.

Eighth—George Schutz, Shawano; J. R. Pfissner, Portage.

Seventh—J. C. Burns, La Crosse county; Herman Grotophorst, Sauk Sauk county.

When the convention adjourned at noon, indications were that Judge John C. Karel, Milwaukee; C. H. Weisse, Sheboygan; Senator Paul O. Husting, Mayville, and William F. Wolfe, La Crosse, would be the candidates for delegates at large.

WORKING OUT PLAN FOR LIBRARY FUND

It became known this afternoon that a court action to test the validity of the library appropriation is highly improbable, and that the library board and city authorities are working on a plan whereby the fund can be legally paid through a board so named as to comply with the statute as they interpret and at the same time to conform to the terms of the Washburn will.

YOUNG MOTHER LEAVES WEEK OLD SON UPON DOOR-STEP EARLY TODAY

Rising at 5:30 this morning to answer his doorbell, Jack D. Hengstler, 708 West Avenue South, stumbled over a card board box on his doorstep, in which lay, quietly asleep, the snugly wrapped form of a baby boy scarcely a week old. Down the street a human figure was vanishing into the darkness, but whether man or woman, Mr. Hengstler could not tell.

Mr. Hengstler picked up the box carefully, and took it into the warmth of the house. He called Mrs. Hengstler, and together they unfolded some of the wrappings, and looked at the peacefully sleeping infant. The light awoke him. He opened a pair of sharp black eyes, and cried a little for his mother.

Out of the wrappings dropped a note—typewritten. It said:

"Oh, won't you please take my baby? It nearly breaks my heart to think of having to part with him, but what shall I do? I have noticed you many times. You always look so neat, so pleasant, and as if you could be the most loving mother. So won't you take him from me, and love him for me?

"I have never gone wrong before, and this once has caused me him. Oh, why is it? I love him so.

"You never need to worry over his parentage because we both come from honest, good parents, and his father as well as myself are healthy and strong.

"I am talking to you from the very bottom of my aching heart. Won't you please keep him?

"And please don't make this more public than you can help. Will leave this city in a few days, never to return again.

"Good bless you, and keep him for my sake.

"A HEART BROKEN MOTHER."

Bay to Hospital

Mr. Hengstler took the boy, in the card board box in which he had been left on the door-step, down to St. Ann's hospital, and put him in charge of the kindly sisters. But he intimated today that perhaps the young mother's plea would not go unanswered. The Hengstlers have no children.

"We had to take him to the hospital", he explained. "When babies arrive out of a clear sky it's hard to find proper food for them all of a sudden, you know. We haven't decided yet about keeping him. He's a mighty cute, sturdy little chap, but one doesn't decide those things on the spur of the moment, you know."

He Has Good Lungs

The baby, Mr. Hengstler said, was not more than ten days old at the outside, a husky little atom with a good pair of lungs, dark hair and eyes. He was warmly wrapped, and dressed neatly, although not expensively.

"I heard foot-steps running away when I got up to open the door," Mr. Hengstler said in telling of the discovery of the infant. "It sounded to me as if they were those of a man."

AUSTRIAN ARRESTED BY SECRET SERVICE ON WILSON STAGE

Executive Says Defense Should Be Efficient and Prepared for Emergency

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—An Austrian, clothed in an American army uniform, was arrested by secret service men on the stage in the Auditorium last night where President Wilson was speaking on preparedness.

The man, who gave his name as Sigmunt L. Wisniewski, said he had put on the uniform in order to make his way successfully through the crowd to hear the president. Secret service men who searched him found in his wallet newspaper clippings expressing pro-German sentiments. Police fear he may have had designs on the president.

Wisniewski was held for further examination today. He was at the

OLD CONTROVERSY IS REVIVED BY ROSENBERG SUIT

Milwaukeean's Effort to Recover Echo of Affairs of Mexican Plantation Company

In circuit court this morning came a re-echo of the decade-long controversy involving the affairs of the defunct Mexican Plantation company, of which the late M. E. Horne and Charles Seiler were the active factors.

The incident came back in the form of a suit by I. J. Rosenberg, Milwaukee, to recover from Henry A. Salzer, W. B. Tscharner and John C. Toeller the sum of approximately $60,000 which the plaintiff alleges is due him as principle and interest of a loan and an additional compensation for services in making the loan. The alleged principle was $40,000.

The case involves such a legal tangle to complicate the issues of fact involved that both sides, at the suggestion of the court, agreed to waive a jury trial. The jury impaneled for the case was discharged.

"It would be like cruelty to animals", said Judge Clementson, "to ask a jury to listen to the evidence in this case. There are so many points of law involved that the average man could not help but be bewildered."

While only the three above named defendants are sued, additional directors at the time of the loan were William Funk, Dr. R. R. Schaettle, Peter Bolt and the late Albert Platz.

Boss and Baldwin represent the plaintiff and J. E. Higbee and Earl Graves, Sparta, appear for the defendants. Judge Clementson, of Black River Falls, will hear the case, as Judge E. C. Higbee had a retainer for the defendants prior to his elevation to the bench.

Mr. Tscharner arrived here from Minneapolis and Mr. Toeller from Battle Creek today.

GERMAN FORCES SENT TO THE YSER FRONT TO EXPECTED OFFENSIVE

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 1.—Large bodies of German cavalry and several landsturm divisions have passed through Liege, enroute to the Yser front, in the past few days.

Travelers arriving here today reported that the Germans expect an allied offensive within a fortnight and are strengthening their lines in Flanders.

CARRANZA LEADER KILLED BY VILLA MEN IN HOLD-UP

General Thomas Ornelias Is Taken from Mexican Central Train; No Other Passengers Molested

MANY ABANDON TRIPS TO SONORA

Knowledge Villa Can Cut Railroads Keeps People from Trips Into Danger Country

EL PASO, Feb. 1.—General Thomas Ornelias, Carrana leader, was executed by Villa bandits yesterday when a Mexican Central train was held up yesterday near Chihuahua.

Ornelias, it was stated, was the only passenger molested. Despite assurances to this effect, fears were felt for the safety of H. C. Newberry of Las Cruces, N. M., the only American on the train.

The bandits are said to have looted the express car. Confirmation of the belief that Villa is able to cut the Central and Mexican Northwestern railroads at will, despite Carranzista assurances to the contrary, prompted several Americans to abandon proposed trips to Sonora today.

STEEL EMPLOYES STRIKE

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 1.—Eight hundred men were jobless and five of the twelve mills of the Carnegie Steel company were shut down today as the result of a strike for higher wages. A ten per cent raise granted by the United States Steel corporation a month ago became effective today but the men said this was insufficient.

Plan to Run from Grand Crossing to Gund Brewery Involves Laying of Much Steel

That the Wisconsin Railway Light and Power company has ordered ten new cars for the La Crosse service and is now considering the details of their equipment, is a statement made today by a citizen in close touch with the local management.

Through Service Planned

Another important step being considered by the company is a plan to run a through service from Grand Crossing, North La Crosse, to the Gund Brewery terminal. This will require considerable double-tracking, but would serve to save much time. On the present schedule each north side car must "kill" eight minutes out of each forty-minute trip, and each south side car on the main line "kills" five minutes. The through car schedule, it is hoped, might eliminate this loss.

As a basis for working out the proposed schedule, conductors are now under orders to make out a separate envelope for each transfer point, the plan involving consider-

LA CROSSE HAS VITAL INTEREST IN RATE HEARING

Tittemore Declares at Madison Probe City Pays 13 to 35 Per Cent More Than Iowa Cities So Placed

TRAFFIC BRINGS NO DECREASE

More Business in Wisconsin Than in Any Other State But Illinois But No Rate Advantage

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 1—(Special)—That the city of La Crosse is vitally interested in the big freight rate hearing here on the Tittemore complaints is disclosed by the exhibits placed in evidence by J. N. Tittemore, who is asking for an adjustment of all of the freight rates of the state. Mr. Tittemore testified that the rates in Wisconsin are higher than in Iowa when equal distances are compared on all classes of rates. Not only are they higher now, he said, but at the time the railroad commission law was enacted they were high and have not been substantially disturbed.

Comparing railroad rates in Iowa and Wisconsin for the same distances on the same classes of freight, with old rate before the commission and at the present time, Mr. Tittemore declared that the percentage of overcharge to La Crosse varies from 13 per cent on first class less than carload lot shipments to 35 per cent on less than carload lot shipments.

In a discussion of the influence that density of traffic has on rates, it was brought out by the complainants today, although no figures were introduced, that although more railroad traffic is carried on in Wisconsin than in any other state in the west, excepting Illinois, no rate benefit had resulted.

URGES BORROWING TO BUILD ROADS

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Addressing the annual road school here today, John A. Hazelwood, chairman of the Wisconsin highway commission, urged a system of state bonds for road improvements, similar to the methods used by municipalities in making public improvements. He said even the $4,500,000 expended in 1914 was inadequate, and that future generations should help pay for roads and bridges of which they would have the use.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

BY DAISY DEAN

Ruth Roland, who is being featured in Pathe-Balboa productions, has been on the stage for thirteen years and is yet only twenty-two. Few of the screen favorites of the day can point to a record like that.

Miss Roland made her debut at the age of four as "Baby Ruth," on the Pacific coast, and was regarded as a phenomenon. When she was playing "Little Lord Fauntleroy" at the age of six in San Francisco, she attracted the attention of David Belasco, who did not hesitate to say that she was the best child actress he had ever seen. She continued on the stage when she was eleven, when she was sent to a private school, remaining there until she was sixteen. Her success as an ingenue was even greater than as a child. Her versatility was such that she played comedy or drama with equal ease.

Four years ago she was "discovered" by a Kalem director, who engaged her to appear in western and Indian plays.

Ruth Roland.

She has not been overshadowed by the great stars of the legitimate stage who have gone into moving pictures.

Dorothy Gish In New England Drama

Dorothy Gish, charming in "Old Heidelberg," and wistfully appealing as the bandit's daughter in "Jordan Is a Hard Road," will soon be presented by the Triangle Film Corporation as the heroine of a New England romance — not the eiry flighty kind, but of the quaint, semi-poetical realism that characterizes the Wilkins and Wiggin novels. Miss Gish in the play is a caretaker's daughter wandering in and about Graystone Gables, the summer home of a young New York dilettante and dabbler in art. Her home life is particularly hard after the death of her amiable father, for the mother reweds and the step-father and his two grown-up sons are of the brutal type. The later scenes of the play show Betty Lockwood, the heroine, transferred to New York, and getting an insight into the life of artists and models. The pretty story ends happily in the marriage of Betty and the owner of Graystone Gables, ending with Betty's reconciliation to her mother.

Frank Daniels, comic opera comedian, who has been working under the direction of C. Jay Williams in a series of one-reel comedies for the vitagraph company, is so thoroughly interested in his work that he intends to forsake the legitimate stage forever. He has been acting the role of an old soldier and his antics have been so amusing that the work in neighboring studios has often stopped that the directors and actors may be amused.

Tom Santschi was discovered looking intently into a large mirror just installed in the Selig studio. He wasn't admiring himself as was at first supposed, but was looking for flaws in the glass. Before he became a movie actor he was a glassmaker at Kokomo, Ind.

COMMITTEE NAMED TO SEE WHETHER BRANDEIS IS FIT

WASHINGTON, Fev. 1.—A subcommittee was named Monday by Acting Chairman Overman of the judiciary committee to investigate Louis D. Brandeis' fitness for appointment to the supreme court.

The senators named are Chilton of West Virginia; Fletcher of Florida and Walsh of Montana, democrats; and Clark of Wyoming and Cummins of Iowa, republicans.

Of this five, it is thought that Chilton and Fletcher, and possibly Walsh, will be susceptible to White House influence even if their private opinions are adverse to the Brandeis appointment.

How to Have the Best Cough Remedy and Save $2 by Making It at Home

Cough medicines, as a rule contain a large quantity of plain syrup. A pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, stirred for 2 minutes, gives you as good syrup as money can buy.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with sugar syrup. This gives you, at a cost of only 54 cents, a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50—a clear saving of nearly $2. Full directions with Pinex. It keeps perfectly and tastes good.

It takes hold of the usual cough or chest cold at once and conquers it in 24 hours. Splendid for whooping cough, bronchitis and winter coughs.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals and soothes the inflamed membranes in the case of a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, combined with guaiacol, and has been used for generations to heal inflamed membranes of the throat and chest.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

"LIDA LANE, PRESS AGENT"

BY JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Timothy Bradley looked at the card that the office boy had handed him. It bore the inscription, "Lida Lane, press agent, A. N. L. P. E. W."

"What the deuce is an A. N. L. P. E. W.?" he asked the boy. "If she's any sort of book agent, I simply can't see her. Tell her I'm out—no, wait a minute. If she doesn't look positively violent show her in—that is, unless she's a suffragist. I don't believe I'm in trim to see any Pankhursts today."

Timothy Bradley was running for congress, and it was part of his political tactics, no less than a phase of his own good nature, never to turn away callers who asked for personal interviews. On this particular morning, he was more than ordinarily busy, for election day was drawing nigh and the campaigning maneuvers were at their height.

Then Lida Lane came into Mr. Bradley's office.

Of course she was pretty—she had been selected for her work partly because of that very fact. She had friendly, frank, unsophisticated brown eyes, a peach skin complexion and a firm determined rounded little mouth that made her look younger than she really was. As a matter of fact Lida was only twenty-two anyway.

She took the proffered chair at Mr. Bradley's desk and then explained, "I have just come to Brookburgh as the press agent of the A. N. L. P. E. W., and after studying the situation here I have started my campaign by calling on you. I want to know where you are going to take your stand on this great question. Are you for us or against us? Whatever your answer we will gain by having it known. If you are with us we will win your friends. If you are against us we will profit by your political enemies and perhaps add to their number. We may as well make capital over the strong political friction that your campaign is creating."

"Well, just a minute," interrupted Bradley, wondering how that absurdly youthful mouth could be so emphatic. "I am quite sure I am for you personally."

He didn't intend to say just that, but he let it pass with a flourish of his hand. "Just to get a line on what way I can be of assistance to you, let me ask you what this N. P. X. Y. Z. association is that you represent. I am prepared to stand on preparedness, prison reforms, prohibition, vivisection and several other sections. I am willing to say, too, that I am not a vegetarian, or a Mormon, or a Mohammedan, or an anarchist, or a nihilist, or an I. W. W. Have I covered your question?"

Lida laughed heartily at this speech and Timothy laughed with her. He had the comfortable, expansive feeling of having been extremely clever. He was also aware that Lida Lane, whoever she was, showed a very pretty set of teeth when she laughed.

"I thought, of course, you knew," she explained. "The A. N. L. P. E. W. is the American National League for the Political Emancipation of Women—the only live-wire organization in Brockburgh. They have imported me to do the press work. I have been searching through your record at headquarters and I find that you have made no statement as to where you stand on the question of votes for women."

"Then they've got me down on the lists over at your headquarters? What did you find out?"

"Oh, that you're a bachelor of good habits, and no family. That you are the heir to the Bradley fortune, which is reputed to be larger that it really is, though it is quite respectable. That you are a lawyer by profession, that you make strong friends and strong enemies and that you'd go to any honorable means you could to get into congress. So far, no returns on the suffrage question——"

"Well, you see"—Bradley felt strangely at a loss for exactly what to say. "I never had just the opportunity I wanted to come out on this matter. I thought that is—if the women want it why shouldn't they have it? But hold on there, young lady, don't take that down as an interview. First let me give you a little dope how to run this publicity game the way it should be.

"In the first place, a press agent—you see I've done some of that work myself—doesn't want to waste time writing copy. Let the newspaper fellows do that. What you press agents want to do is to start a row or something and then make the newspaper boys think you are trying to keep it from them. They'll come around fast enough. Now this idea of yours about making political capital of my position here in Brockburgh is good. What you want to do now is to trot back to your little office without taking a word of notes about what I have to say on the suffrage issue. But in a day or so—this afternoon if you can—I'll drop around at suffrage headquarters. Somebody's sure to see me. The office of the Morning Banner is right across the way. You must prime your people to keep mum when the reporters ask them about my call, and for a day or two we'll keep them guessing. In the meantime, I'll drop around every day and have conferences with you or your big chief and read the dope that you hand out. They will overhear us, the first thing you know, and there it will be the next day all across the first page of the Banner."

It was only three o'clock that afternoon when Bradley made his first call at suffrage headquarters, and for three days things went on according to schedule. The reporters did follow him to headquarters and they did ask questions. No one at headquarters vouchsafed to offer any information, since the leaders had been taken into the secret of the scheme that Bradley had laid down to Lida.

There was much, too, that the politician found it was necessary for him to learn from Lida about the feminist question, and after the other organizers had gone for the evening he found occasion to linger at Lida's desk for further instruction.

"Suppose you let me go to dinner with you," he said one night, after the scheme had been progressing for a week. "We'll take a spin over to the next town in my car so's not to start Dame Rumor gossiping, and maybe I can get you to listen to this other matter. It is practically a sure thing now that they'll come out with the announcement tomorrow morning. There was a reporter from the Banner in here almost half the afternoon and he was around trying to pump a stenographer half the morning."

It was past twilight when they left headquarters, and Lida, as the last of the organizers out, closed the door of the shop.

"Maybe you'll have to change that card you've got in your records about me before long," he said as they walked down the block toward Bradley's garage. "The only reason I've been a bachelor so long is because I never knew the girl before who was pretty enough to love that had brains enough to make a success of marriage." And as they stepped into the car, Bradley peered in the semi-darkness. "I'm blessed if that reporter from the Banner wasn't shadowing me still. Well, I hope he's got the dope he's after. Wait till you see what a send-off the A. N. L. P. E. W. will get in the morning."

When Lida arrived at headquarters later than usual in the morning her first object was to see the Morning Banner and discover whether the prediction Mr. Bradley had made had come true. She had started out so late that she had not stopped on her way to buy the paper.

But at the headquarters she was greeted by an unexpected delegation of suffrage organizers, as well as by Bradley himself, who seemed to be conversing amiably with the women as he entered.

There was a look of satisfaction on the faces of those present quite foreign to the stern business of winning votes for women. White roses and violets lay in florists' boxes on her desk.

"They stole a march on us, Lida", was Mr. Bradley's breezy greeting, for no one else seemed to know just what to say. "Here's the paper." And Lida held it up to discover across four columns on the front page:

"Bradley to Wed Suffrage Leader.

"Congressional Candidate No Longer Able to Stay on the Fence on Important Reform Issue."

Of course it was true. Still she had not expected any one would know of it till after election day.

"She's some little press agent, isn't she, ladies?" Bradley asked in his friendly 'round-town manner.

HOUSTON, Minn., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mettille and daughters, Evelyn and Mary Helen, of Milestone, Mont., were the guests of honor at a gathering of the Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen, their families and neighbors on Friday evening at Woodmen hall.

The event was planned by Oak Leaf Camp, R. N. A., of which Mr. and Mrs. Mettille are members.

Though a goodly crowd was present many more would have been included but for the icy condition of the roads which in most places made them almost impassible.

A number from here will go to Winona this week to see the "Birth of a Nation."

Mrs. A. L. Mettille and daughters Marie and Blanche gave a pleasant surprise party Saturday evening in honor of Miss Evelyn Eagles of Milestone, Mont. The crowd met at the home of Miss Florence Hill at 7:30 and then proceeded to the Mettille residence, where Miss Evelyn had been invited earlier in the evening. As the crowd was admitted the guest of honor was met with greetings of "surprise."

THE PAST ANSWERS EDITOR GELATT

Two sets of candidates for delegates-at-large and district delegates to the (republican) national convention will be submitted to the republicans in Wisconsin for their selection at the primaries in April," says the Leader-Press. "There is a republican ticket and a La Follette ticket. The state convention at Madison Thursday was called by the republican state central committee. It was open to all republicans. * * * The La Follette conference * * * was exclusively factional in its composition."

The Leader-Press adds that the editor of the La Crosse Tribune, one "of a number of persons who recognize no allegiance to the republican party except when they or their friends are on the ticket", was present at the La Follette meeting."

No doubt by "the La Follette conference at Madison" is meant the recent republican gathering at Camp Douglas, and the blunder fairly measures the accuracy of the entire article.

Here are a few facts:

Neither meeting was a political convention, because the Wisconsin law provides for no such conventions. The fact that the chairman of the state central committee called the stalwart meeting does not make any difference, for he acted without legal authority.

There was not "a republican ticket and a La Follette ticket". There is a Philipp ticket and a La Follette ticket. Both gatherings were factional. Every delegate named at the one is a progressive and every delegate named at the other is a stalwart.

The crowd who engineered the stalwart gathering has sought the defeat of progressive republicans, fought La Follette in the Rose and Peck campaigns, and most of them would not vote for him were he to become the republican presidential candidate. They elected a set of delegates not one of whom, it is probable, has ever cast a vote for La Follette. Senator La Follette does not expect the votes of their delegates at large, either for senator or president.

The complaint of men who have voted the republican ticket but once in fourteen years, that others are not republicans because they have refused to bow to a subverted partyism at the expense of vital principles, is triffling. The Leader-Press chooses to be personal, indulging the observation that the publisher of the TRIBUNE has opposed republican candidates. We venture the assertion that the publisher of the Leader-Press never voted for Senator La Follette, and that following Senator La Follette's nomination either for senator or president, the publisher of the Leader-Press will not vote for him in the 1916 election.

However, we've a notion that no political service accorded Senator La Follette is more helpful than the opposition of a coterie of which the publisher of the Leader-Press has been a somewhat less enthusiastic member since the statutory limitation upon campaign expenditures was adopted, and perhaps we should not disguise our gratitude for political admonition at the hands of a gentleman whose finesse was acquired in the wide range of experience covered by his establishment of the democratic Daily Press and his later contemporaneous publication of the democratic Morning Chronicle and the republican evening Leader-Press. One who thus reads his title clear to place and voice in the republican party so truly conforms to stalwart precedent that the earth should keep silence before him.

SOLEMN WARNING

During his trip in advocacy of immediate strengthening of the national defenses President Wilson has repeatedly uttered warnings which may tend to reverse the positions of loyal citizens who have been hostile to the preparedness plan, largely because of the selfish sources from which its propaganda has emanated. We note such expressions as these:

You cannot afford to postpone this thing. I do not know what a single day may bring forth.

I want merely to leave you with the solemn impression that I know that we are daily treading amidst the most intricate dangers.

All I can do is to tell you that I know of the necessities of the case and to ask you to stand back of the executive authorities.

If these gentlemen could have sat with me reading the dispatches and handling the questions which arise every hour they would know how infinitely difficult it has been to maintain the peace.

And therefore, as your responsible servant, I must tell you that the dangers are infinite and constant.

The president declares that he is a friend of peace and that he has used and is using his utmost influence to avoid war. There are citizens who believe by a slight modification of policy and without loss of dignity he might have steered a safer course. We are not prepared to share that opinion. We are deeply impressed with the dangerous influence that militarism must have upon the republic, but we believe that if the people come to believe with the president that there is genuine and immediate peril of war, they will support whatever measures to them seem to represent adequate preparation.

However, we insist that to this end we should proceed through government agencies and not by contract. Not one dollar should go to the munitions and armament jingoes. This government should proceed to provide means for manufacturing every article and every unit necessary to the national defense, and the cost therefore should be so apportioned as not to fall upon the men who, if there shall be war, must do the fighting.

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Niksah)

The vale of Kashmir is one of the most beautiful and unfortunate valleys in Asia. High among the Himalayas, ringed with nonster five-mile peaks, clothed in evergreen fir and deodar, the light green bed of Jahlam strung across its dun breast like a jade necklace, blushing with the ghostly pink and plum-blossoms, it is worth crossing half Asia to spend a day there—and there are times when it is worth spending a fortune to get away.

Kashmir has a persistent record of natural calamity. Jehlam overflows his banks at intervals and sends destroying floods that wipe whole districts clean as a child wipes his slate. The giant peaks around the valley stir now and again in their sleep of ages and shake the flats with mighty earthquakes. Famine and cholera kill more than the river and the trembling mountains. Fire frequently sweeps the fields and cities.

As you look up at the hills on either side from the bed of Jehlam, you see that one slope is covered with cool, dark forest, while the other grows nothing but long grass. A spark in this grass starts the blaze. Among the Himalayas the air is biting cold, and the Kashmiri carries a little charcoal brazier under his robe to warm his body. These peripatetic furnaces start a flame.

With a history dotted with such calamitous landmarks, the people of Kashmir have acquired a pessimistic expression and disposition. They are superstitious, too, ascribing all manner of miraculous attributes and fairy inhabitants to the mountain springs. There is one great fountain whose water they say turns dark and murky when the cholera is about to come. Then there are more cheerful legends, tales weird and fantastic yet beautiful, more in keeping with the fragrant blossom-studded loveliness that is Kashmir in the spring.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root sells well with us because it invariably produces good results in Kidney, Liver and Bladder troubles. We sold a dollar bottle to one of the inmates of our Soldiers' Home near here, and after using it he brought in about one dozen gravel stones some as large as a pea, which he had passed. Jane, startled, withdrew her hand, and without a farewell glance, ran across the library and through the door to Lady Crandall's room. Jaimihr Khan, with a cold glance at Woodhouse, moved silently to the door of General Crandall's room and knocked.

"It is I—Jaimihr Khan," he answered to the muffled hail from within. "Yes, General Sahib, I will wait."

He turned and looked toward Woodhouse. The latter had taken a cigarette from the case Almer had sent him through Jane, and was turning it over in his hand curiously. The Indian, treading like a hunting cat, began lighting candles. His tour of the room brought him to the captain's side, and there he stood, motionless, until Woodhouse, with a start, observed him.

"Cap-tain Wood-house has been most in-discreet," he said, in his curious mechanical way of speech.

Woodhouse turned on him angrily.

"What do you mean?" he snapped.

"Is it that they have ceased to teach discretion—at the Wilhelmstrasse?" The Indian's face was a mask.

"I know nothing about the Wilhelmstrasse," the white man answered, in a voice suddenly strained.

"Then it is veree, veree foolish for the captain to leave in his room these plans." Jaimihr Khan took from his girdle a thin roll of blue prints—the plans of the signal tower and Room D which Almer had given Woodhouse the night before. He held them gingerly between slender thumb and forefinger.

Woodhouse recoiled.

"The general sahib has sent me to search the cap-tain's room," the even voice of Jaimihr Khan ran on. "Behold the results of my journey!"

Woodhouse sent a lightning glance at the door leading to the governor's room, then stepped lightly away from the Indian and regarded him with calculating eyes.

"What do you propose to do—with those plans?"

"What should I do?" The white shoulders of the Indian went up in a shrug. "They will stand you before a wall, Cap-tain Wood-house. And fire. It is the price of in-discretion at a time like this."

Woodhouse's right hand whipped back to his holster, which hung from his sword belt, and came forward again with a thick, short-barreled weapon in it.

"Give me those plans, you yellow hound!"

"Shoot!" Jaimihr Khan smiled. "Add one in-discretion to another. Shoot, my youthful fool!"

The door to General Crandall's room opened, and the general, in uniform evening dress, stepped into the library. Woodhouse swiftly slipped his revolver behind his back, though keeping it ready for instant use.

"All ready, Captain. Smoke." The general extended his cigarette case toward Woodhouse.

The latter smilingly declined, his eyes all the while on the Indian, who stood by the corner of the general's desk. Between the sleek brown hands a tiny blue roll of paper was twisting into a narrower wisp under the careless manipulation of thin fingers.

"Well, Jaimihr," Crandall briskly addressed the servant, "have you completed the errand I sent you on?"

"Yes, General Sahib." The brown fingers still caressed the plans of the signal tower.

"Have you anything to report?" The general had his cigarette in his mouth and was pawing his desk for a match. Jaimihr Khan slowly lifted the tip of the paper wisp in his fingers to the flame of a candle on the end of the desk, then held the burning tip to his master's cigarette.

"Nothing, General Sahib."

"Very good. Come, Woodhouse; sorry to have kept you waiting." The general started for the double doors. Woodhouse followed. He passed very close to the Indian, but the latter made no sign. His eyes were on the burning wisp of paper between his fingers.

CHAPTER XVI.
The Pendulum of Fate

The next day, Thursday, was one of hectic excitement for Gibraltar. Focus of the concentrated attention of town and Rock was the battle fleet, clogging all the inner harbor with its great gray hulks. Superdreadnaughts, like the standing walls of a submerged Atlantis, lay close to the quays, barges lashed alongside the folded booms of their torpedo nets. Behind them, battle cruisers and scouts formed a protecting cordon. Far out across the entrance to the harbor, the darting black shapes of destroyers on constant guard were shuttles trailing their threads of smoke through the blue web of sea and sky. Between fleet and shore snorting cockleshells of launches established lanes of communication: khaki of the Rock's defenders and blue of the fleet's officers met, passed, and repassed. In wardroom and club lounge glasses were touched in pledges to the united service. The high commander of the Mediterranean fleet paid his official visit to the governor of Gibraltar, and the governor, in turn, was received with honors upon the quarterdeck of the flagship. But under the superficial courtesies of fanfare and present arms the stern business of coaling fleet progressed at high tension. It was necessary that all of the fighting machines have their bunkers filled by noon of the following day. Every minute that the Channel up under the murky North Sea fogs lay without full strength of her fleet protection was added danger for England.

That morning, Captain Woodhouse went on duty in the signal tower. Major Bishop, his superior, had summoned him to his office immediately after breakfast and assigned him to his tasks there. Sufficient proof, Woodhouse assured himself, with elation, that he had come through the fire in General Crandall's library, tested and found genuine. Through this pretext and that, he had been kept off duty the day before, denied access to the slender stone tower high up on the Rock's crest which was the motor center of Gibraltar's ganglia of defense.

The small office in which Woodhouse was installed was situated at the very top of the tower—a room glassed on four sides like the lantern room of a lighthouse, and provided with telescope, a telephone switchboard, range finders, and all the complicated machinery of gunfire control. On one side were trestle boards supporting charts of the ranges—figured areas representing every square yard of water from the nearer harbor below out to the farthest reaching distance of the monster disappearing guns. A second graphic sheet showed the harbor and anchorages and the entrance to the straits; this map was thickly spotted with little, red, numbered dots—the mines. Sown like a turnip field with these deadly capsules of destruction were all the waters thereabouts; their delicate tendrills led under water and through conduits in the Rock up to this slender spire called the signal tower. As he climbed the winding stairway to his newly assigned post, Woodhouse had seen painted on a small wooden door just below the room he was to occupy the single white letter "D."

Room D—where the switches were, where a single sweep of the hand could loose all the hidden death out there in the crowded harbor—it lay directly below his feet.

An Ideal Remedy for Nursing Mothers

Compound of Simple Laxative Herbs Safe for Baby and Mother.

Constipation is a condition that affects the old, young and middle-aged, and most people at one time or another need help in regulating the action of the bowels. Harsh cathartics and purgatives should not be employed to relieve constipation, as their effect is only temporary while they shock the system unnecessarily.

A remedy that can be used with perfect safety for the tiniest babe and that is equally effective for the strongest constitution is found in the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and sold in drug stores everywhere for fifty cents a bottle. This is an ideal household remedy and should be in every family medicine chest.

Mrs. F. I. Barsolow, 18 Leslie St., Holyoke, Mass., wrote to Dr. Caldwell, "Syrup Pepsin certainly is fine. I gave it to my baby, Evelyn, and also took it myself. It is the only medicine I have been able to take without affecting Baby in the nursing. I have used it for all four children and it is fine; they like it and ask for it."

Mrs. L. C. Colman was leader of the lesson and papers on the three schools established for these people, two in Kentucky and one in Tennessee, were read by Mesdames F. G. Cowles, L. P. Benezet and A. A. Bentley. The meeting yesterday was unusually well attended.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Prideaux, parents of Mrs. Philip Jacobus of this city, recently celebrated their golden wedding at Mineral Point, Wis. There was a large company of children and grandchildren present. The house was decorated with beautiful flowers, the gifts of friends. The bride and groom were also presented with a well filled purse. From the Mineral Point Tribune we clip the following, which shows the estimation in which they are held in their city:

Mr. and Mrs. Prideaux, although 72 and 69 years of age respectively, enjoy good health and are interested in all that makes life worth living. They have lived here from infancy and are numbered among the highly respected pioneers of our city. Mr. Prideaux was a member of the Miners' Guards, a military organization which left Mineral Point at the first call of President Lincoln for defenders of the union and became a force for loyalty and nerve in connection with the gallant 2d Wisconsin of the famous Iron Brigade.

The anniversary was much enjoyed by them, as their children were all present, with the exception of Fred Prideaux of St. Louis who was unable to come.

Covers were laid for twenty-two at a prettily decorated table centered with a bouquet of red carnations. During refreshments the guests were entertained with selections on the Victrola. A most enjoyable evening was spent and the guests departed for their homes shortly before midnight.

MITE BOX SOCIAL

From time to time during the year, boxes of clothing and gifts are also sent by the Queen Esther Circle to these same girls.

OR
CONTRASTING THE YEARS

Under the above heading The Tribune will publish each Tuesday during February, the jubilee month of the Young Women's Christian Associations in America, an article showing by contrast with the conditions existing in the organization of a stated period of years ago the forward strides of this great movement throughout the nation. Today's article deals with associations existing fifty years ago—a long look backward—showing by contrast how golden may be the achievements of such a period of time.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
1866-1876

Fifty years ago in the classical city of Boston, thirty earnest women met to consider the needs of girls who came to that city to seek employment. The needs of these girls led to the organization of the first Young Women's Christian Association in this country, which was effected March 3, 1866.

Down-town rooms were opened.

Miss Mary Foster was called as the first general secretary and the work was launched!

The work at that time was largely that of an employment bureau, but educational classes, both vocational and cultural and religious meetings were also held.

Hartford, Connecticut; Providence, R. I.; Pittsburgh and Alleghany, Pa., in 1867, and Cincinnati and Cleveland, Ohio, and St. Louis, Missouri, in 1868, followed by forming similar societies called Women's Christian Associations. Others in the Mississippi Valley took the name of YOUNG Women's Christian Associations.

On October 9th and 10th, 1871, delegates from nine Women's Christian Associations met at Hartford and formed what later bore the name of the International Conference of Women's Christian Associations.

The first Young Women's Christian Association building was erected in Hartford, Connecticut, in 1872. Heretofore they had been purchased and remodeled.

The first student Association was organied at Normal, Illinois, in 1873.

The first summer home was opened at Asbury Park, New Jersey, in 1874.

TODAY
Feb. 1-7, 1916

Today there are 245 city Associations with a membership of 273,234. 93 Associations placed 52,410 girls in positions last year.

Practically all of these city Associations now have down-town rooms.

1,663 secretaries are on the employed staff of the Young Women's Christian association. There are also many volunteer workers.

Today the subjects taught in the educational classes range from those found on the curriculum of schools from the grammar grade to the university. The latest enrollment gives:

Bible study	47,835
Educational classes	45,415
Domestic art and science	26,964
Employment bureau placements	52,410

The last National Convention was held at Los Angeles, California, May 5-11, 1915, with an attendance of 1,235.

Today the Associations own 189 buildings, with a property valuation of $9,162,147.

There are 721 Student Associations with a membership of 65,348.

Today thousands of girls in relays joyfully hie themselves to one of the 100 summer homes in various parts of the country for country air, rest, quiet hours with good books, bacon bats, corn roasts, athletics and aquatic sports of all kinds according to the physical advantages of the location of these homes.

NORTH SIDE

LEAGUE RE-OPENS OLD CAMPAIGN FOR NORTH SIDE DEPOT

Progressive Leaguers Have Hopes for Favorable Outcome After Appeal to Road Officials

What members of the north side Progressive league and Franklin club intend to be their final fight for a new Milwaukee station to take the place of the small, ancient building now serving the purpose will be launched tonight at the meeting of the Progressive leaguers. This was announced today by Joseph J. Dubraks, president of the league and an active member of the Franklin club.

President Dubraks will again bring up the scrap which north siders have waged for years. Recently a delegation of Progressive league members waited upon high officials of the Milwaukee road with a request for a new station. The officials are said to have listened to their proposal with favor, although they made no promises, and according to the committee, have taken no steps to carry out the plans broached to them.

"I think the Progressive league has the backing of every resident of this part of the city," said Mr. Dubraks, to a TRIBUNE reporter today. "An adequate, comfortable, station is one of the most needed things on the north side. Time and time again have the citizens here made requests to the Milwaukee officials, and it is probable that if they are not answered at this time, a different course of action will be taken."

Mr. Dubraks did not state definitely what course would be pursued in the event the railroad refuses to erect a new station, but it was rumored on the north side that the Wisconsin railway commission would be appealed to.

Members of the Franklin club, working in conjunction with the Progressive league, have announced that the need of a new station will be the subject of a debate in the near future.

According to Progressive members, in the recent interview with Milwaukee officials, the officials talked of a plan to build the station under the Rose street viaduct, with a spiral staircase running from the street car track level down into the waiting room.

MANY EXTRA MEN NEEDED TO RUSH THE ICE HARVEST

Between twenty-five and fifty extra men will be needed to harvest the ice crop this season. The harvest re-opened with a rush this morning on account of the drop in temperature. The John C. Owens Ice company began work yesterday. They have been busy with an electric cutter, considerable wiring being necessary before it could be used to advantage.

The Arctic Ice & Fuel company began their harvest last week and will complete their cutting within three or four weeks if the weatherman keeps the temperature below zero.

FACE COVERED WITH PIMPLES ALL HER LIFE

But Miss Ayres Got a 'Beautiful Complexion' at a Cost of Only $2.00

Nov. 23, 1914:—"All my life my face was covered completely with a mass of pimples, blackheads and blotches. I spent a lot of money on numerous remedies and treatments without success and no relief at all. I tried so many things that I was afraid my case could not be cured. Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap seemed to do me good right from the first. I used two jars of Resinol Ointment and some Resinol Soap, the total cost being only $2.00, and this completely cured my case. My skin is without a blemish and I am the possessor of a beautiful complexion." (Signed) Mabell Ayres, Stone Mountain, Va.

Every druggist sells Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and physicians have prescribed them for twenty years in the treatment of eczema and other tormenting skin troubles.

Pleads Not Guilty

Richard Lyons, proprietor of a saloon at Second and Vine streets, yesterday pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault with attempt to do bodily harm to Robert Graham. His case was continued until February 9. Lyons was severely cut about the face with a pocket knife.

Louis Sherwood, La Crescent, charged with stealing a suit case and with being intoxicated, pleaded not guilty today and was held to appear in county court Friday.

New Plan Works Well

The novel method of registration introduced by Mr. McCormach this February is a success. Where formerly it took a week to get classes of uniform size during which time the students were almost idle, all classes were arranged this morning so that regular school may begin today. Saturday morning 180 seniors and advanced seniors registered in a little over one hour and the remainder of the 980 students who enrolled yesterday were through before noon.

Worry

In the world there's lots of trouble;
lots of things to make us glum;
And the things that make us glummest are the troubles yet to come.
Worry sights unknown disasters
when by Joy we're lightly kissed—
Leaves us glooming in the shadows
of the things that don't exist.

More than grim events a-coming cast their shadows o'er the crowd;
Worry sometimes flicks an eyelash
and you think you see a cloud;
All the bile-begotten ravens in a racked soul find their gist
And sit croaking in the shadows
of the things that don't exist.

While the ship of life we're steering
Worry musses up the freight.
Many a Disordered Liver masquerades as Blackest Fate.
Worry loves to give our heart strings,
all too taut, an extra twist—
And we grovel in the shadows
of the things that don't exist.
Look back o'er the road you've traveled, all the weary days you've spent;
'Tis the things that never happened filled you most with discontent.
Worry gave the wraiths a body that they otherwise had missed—
Thus we cower in the shadows of the things that don't exist!

WAR CUT OFF SERVANT SUPPLY FOR UNCLE SAM

old gentlemen are forced to dress themselves, and persons who have always considered a butler as much a necessity as a tooth-brush are now opening their own doors. It is estimated that there are less than half as many butlers and valets in New York today as there were a year ago. One employment agency, which specializes in real English butlers, had orders for five hundred this season and only secured five, though it usually has a thousand names on its registers. With conscription threatened, the prospect of a new supply is anything but bright.

All Go Back

Nearly all of these aliens who have been American servants have gone back to the service of their fatherlands. Not only are butlers and valets fighting in the ranks, but thousands of French maids are wearing the uniform of the Red Cross.

Many of these American servants have gone to the battle line with the help and sympathy of their American employers. At least one New York society woman is still paying the wages of her five servants who are now on the battlefield and in the hospitals. In the absence of the butler, the daughter of the house opens the door for her guests.

Persons who keep large town houses and insist upon the full quota of servants, are having a hard time. They are paying fabulous prices for extremely poor servants, who have always the choice of any number of other positions.

Far more serious though less picturesque than the shortage of servants among the wealthy is the difficulties the average housewife experiences in getting a maid of all work. This is especially true in the north and west, where there are few negro servants and immigrant peasant girls who had almost a monopoly of domestic service. The German girls who formerly came over in considerable numbers, are now almost unobtainable and fewer of other nationailties come every month. The advance in wages has forced many an American woman to do her own housework. Untrained girls, who cannot speak English, are paid as much as $25 or $30 a month.

Americans Too Proud

The most striking feature of this scarcity of domestic help is that there are thousands of American men and women who need the money and could do the work. Unemployment is a problem in nearly all of our cities which the return of prosperity has not completely solved. The "touch" is becoming a more and more common incident upon American streets. The manner of the American down-and-out is always the same. He apologizes for his condition, explains that he is poor but worthy, seeks to approach you as an equal forced to ask help by a temporary embarrassment. The man is not a good beggar, for the same reason that he does not relieve his own indigence by becoming a servant. He is too proud.

The spirit of American equality has engenedered the idea that all personal and household service is menial and degrading. Every other nation in the world has a servant class that is satisfied with its status as such. In the United States, no such class has grown up among the native white population. All the comfortable household jobs have been monopolized by immigrants. And now that there are no immigrants to fill the jobs, Americans who need them will not take them. The anomaly goes farther yet. American wives and mothers are compelled to perform these so-called menial tasks themselves because American servant cannot be found to do the work for wages.

College Men Serve

Of course, the idea that household work is of a lower order than any other skilled labor is simply one of the less desirable products of American pride. The dignity of any work depends upon the spirit in which it is done, and this fact is gradually gaining recognition. In Boston, many college students are paying their way by doing the work of militant butlers and valets. One Harvard man is serving as valet for a wealthy old banker. The student comes at eight o'clock in the morning to serve his employer's breakfast in bed, and aid him with his toilet. He is on duty again between six and seven in the evening, and sometimes after the theater. His work requires only about three hours a day.

The women's educational and industrial union of Boston has successfully defied the idea that household work is menial. It is organized to supply all sorts of domestic servants upon demand, and most of its members are ambitions young women who take this means of getting money to continue their studies. A young singer, who is now successful in concert work, paid her room rent while she was studying by caring for the apartment of a well-known writer. She earned her meals by acting as maid for an elderly couple.

Many Take Opportunity

The war has greatly strengthened this organization, and more and more college girls are taking advantage of it. A few weeks ago, it received a call from a Back Bay mansion for an extra maid to serve at a reception. A college senior left her thesis to answer the call. In a black uniform and white lace cap, she waited upon two members of her own sorority without the slightest embarrassment.

However willing the aristocratic young ladies of Boston may be to dignify domestic service by turning their own hands to it, the fact remains that the great majority of Americans, who might profitably do such work, regard it as beneath them. Students of the question believe that this difficulty may be removed by designating the various branches of household work as trades, and having them performed by skilled workers upon an hourly pay basis. Nelson Addington of New York, is now advocating an employment bureau on this plan for that city. At such a bureau, men and women in need of work could register themselves as cooks, cleaners, caterers, dishwashers, valets or nurse maids. The services of each of these trades would be rated at so much per hour. Instead of hiring an all-around maid at $20 a month, the housekeeper would arrange for regular daily attendance by a number of different specialists. Thus she could get just as much help as she needed. The work would be done more quickly and efficiently, for the effect of the system would be to train a group of specialists in each branch of household work.

Police Hunt Jobs

The New York police have established a system in a rudimentary form by soliciting work along their beats for men who are listed at headquarters. Thus a man who is a metal-polisher may secure a number of odd jobs polishing metal, becoming expert at the business both to his own benefit and that of his patron.

The housekeepers' alliance, which has branches in a number of cities, has been advocating this method of doing house work for a number of years. Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington, D. C., long ago pointed out that it was the only possible solution of the servant question, because American ideals will not permit the development of a servant class.

If the war frees American women from the tyranny of the servant girl, and helps to make household work a dignified trade, it will have brought at least one blessing to America.

To Break up a Cold

Into a pitcher, put a tablespoonful of butter, a quarter of a cup of light brown sugar, an ounce of fresh whole allspice, the juice of one orange and one lemon and a pint of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Let the butter, sugar, allspice and whiskey stand for half an hour, then add a half pint of boiling water. Stir well before serving. The juice of the orange and lemon, last of all. To be served in a wine glass.

This drink is particularly wholesome, appetizing and strengthening, especially in stormy weather. Prompt action on such occasions, in administering a pure stimulant, like Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, so pleasantly combined, will break up a cold, and perhaps ward off more serious attacks of bronchitis or pneumonia.

ORDER NEW CARS PLAN A THROUGH RUN THE LATEST

able extra work, since on some runs as many as six envelopes must be used. Conductors are also charged with the task of making a record of each transfer given out, showing to what branch the passenger transferred. This task, it is said, is but temporary.

The company has experts going over the lines and checking up the service, and experts in the employ of the State Railway commission also are engaged in a similar task.

May Have Air Brakes

The new cars may be equipped with air brakes. Much time is now lost because cars must begin to slow down in advance of a stop, and where frequent stops occur can never attain fair speed, because of the difficulty of stopping. This slow system of hand brakes keeps the average speed for the entire system down to eight miles an hour.

The heating system is "up in the air". The electric system is probably wasteful of current and inadequate for very cold climates. The reasons for the difficulty of this problem may be suggested by a letter recently received by the TRIBUNE from a gentleman residing in a city in the same class as La Crosse, where electric heating is employed. In part the letter follows:

The Heating Problem

"Our cars here have two electric radiators at each end of the car on the inside and one at each end of the car in the vestibule—these latter ones being for the benefit of the motormen and conductor. I interviewed several of the motormen and conductors on the matter and they all agreed that the electric radiator required a lot of power to operate, and did not give out sufficient heat to make the car anything near comfortable after the temperature got as low as five or six above zero. We have two kinds of cars in this city, one where the seats are across the car with an aisle in the center—this kind of a car has a radiator under the end seats in each end of the car. The verdict was that these were very good when the thermometer was no lower than twenty above, but ceased to be of any use when it got lower than that. The other cars have the seats running lengthwise of the car with radiators near each end. The men on these cars seem to think that they did a little more good than the other kind of a radiator, but not very much. I struck one conductor who seemed to have been making a study of the matter and got from him, in effect, the following:

"The best system of heating street cars is a hot water system which has a small hot water hard coal heater and tank that sits in the vestibule of the car. The hot water pipes run around the side of the car like they do in a regular passenger coach. A small quantity of hard coal keeps the water hot and the motorman keeps the fire up. This system can only be used where the cars turn at the end of the line, because in such cars the motormen stays in the same end of the car all the time. Such a plan can not be used where the people get on and off at both ends of the car.

"This man said that there was also a plan of heating cars by having a furnace in the front vestibule and a pipe running over head with the air forced back with fans. He had never seen this system in operation, but was inclined to believe that it was not very practical. He had never worked on a street car any further north than Ottumwa. He said some cars in Chicago were heated the same way they were heated here, and while he had never worked on them he knew that a great many cars with them were too cold to be comfortable. He said that the only lines on which the hot water and hot air system can be used, are lines that have "Y's" at the end so that the car can turn, which proposition was entirely too expensive for small city lines to operate."

Pay-as-You-Enter

Whether the pay-as-you-enter car has been selected could not be learned. The one-man pay-as-you-enter car, originally designed for branches with small traffic, has caught the eye of the company managers and it has been suggested that the company might buy these, thus paying for its new equipment by cutting down its payroll. It is said that for its through service the city will not be satisfied to accept such cars, which are of light build and slow, to operate in times of congestion.

HARD GRIND FOR EMOTIONAL ACTRESS

Wid Gunning, editor of "Film and Film Folk," in a recent issue, tells how Emily Stevens worked when she starred in "The House of Tears." Edwin Carewe, who directs for the Metro, had made all plans to go ahead with a new feature, "The House of Tears." Miss Martha Hedman was to have been the star, but it was found at the last moment that she could not take the part. Then Mr. Carew turned to Miss Stevens. But Miss Stevens was making one of the biggest hits of her career in the new stage success, "The Unchastened Woman." But Ed explained things to her and she remembered the splendid direction Mr. Carew had given her in "The Soul of a Woman," and so she agreed to undertake the film while continuing with her stage work. That meant that Miss Stevens was compelled to work for twelve hours a day for several weeks, which is "some hours" for an emotional actress.

In "The House of Tears" Miss Stevens plays four distinct roles, and during the greater part of the fifth reel she appears in the roles of mother and daughter, both characters being on the screen most of the time.

"The House of Tears" will be presented at the Casino tonight and at the Strand tomorrow.

"He pasted me in de eye!" said Jimmy savagely.

"Yes'm, an' I'm sittin' on him so he'll be here when I git troo' countin'."

STOMACH MISERY QUICKLY VANISHES

Almost INSTANT RELIEF From Indigestion, Belching, Sourness, Heartburn and Biliousness

Your money back if you want it is the way in which all leading drug stores are selling Mi-o-na, the great stomach prescription.

Do not be miserable or make your friends miserable with your dyspepsia. Mi-o-na will help you. Get a box today and learn for yourself how easy it is to put your out-of-order stomach in perfect condition—no more heartburn, belching of gas, sourness, biliousness, dizziness or that feeling of heaviness after eating.

TWO MEN INJURED WHEN YOUNG TEAM SHIES AT PAPER

Otto Mittweider Suffers a Fractured Hip and Herman Pargel Scalp Wound when Hurled from Sled

Otto Mittwider, aged 57, farmer of the town of Campbell, is confined at the La Crosse hospital today with a fractured hip, and Herman Pargel, a neighbor of Mittwider, is at his home with a deep scalp wound. Both were injured when Mittwider's team of young horses ran away at the corner of Twelfth street and Mormon Coulee road yesterday afternoon and threw them from their seat.

Pedestrians and persons living nea the corner where the accident occurred saw the men fall. Pargel was unconscious, and Mittwider was trying to rise. He told those that ran to him that he thought his hip was broken. A passing automobile took both of the men to La Crosse hospital. Dr. Herman Wolf was summoned, but before he arrived Pargel had resumed consciousness.

Mittwider and Pargel had brought a load of hogs from their farms to the Schams Brothers' packing establishment on Mormon coulee. They were starting home when Mittwider's young horses shied at a piece of paper blown by the wind. With a dash they were in a mad gallop, and the men were hurled to the icy street. The horses were caught at Twelfth and La Crosse streets.

FLOOD'S TOLL NOT AS LARGE AS AT FIRST REPORTED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 1.—The farther rescuers penetrated today into the devastated Otay valley, scene of Friday's flood, the more the earlier estimates of fatalities dwindled. Only eleven persons are known to have been drowned in the wall of water that came down the valley following the breaking of the Otay dam. The bodies of the eleven have been recovered.

"SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST"

Fort Sheridan citizen soldier camp last summer. Secret service men were doubly vigilant today.

Wieniwiski was released from custody after the president left Chicago today. His friends succeeded in convincing the police that he meant no harm, but merely wanted to hear the president and didn't care how he got in.

The president delivered what was declared by many to be the most important speech of his political career. It abounded in pointed paragraphs, among which the following stood out prominently:

"Now no man can confidently say whether the United States will be drawn into the struggle or not.

"We have one considerable arm of force, namely, the navy. We have made preparations for immediate war so far as the navy is concerned.

"I have proposed to congress that we build our own armor plant. I have proposed to congress also that we prepare to manufacture our munitions—not to drive other people out of business, but merely to serve other people with notice that if necessary we will manufacture all the munitions we need.

"We are going to see that business characterizes the processes of national defense.

Army Not Big Enough for Peace

"We have not men enough in the army for the routine work of peace.

"We ought to make it the pride of America that great bodies of men are ready to prepare themselves for the time of exigency and the day of sacrifice.

"We stand pledged to see that both the continents of America are left free to be used by their peoples under a principle of national popular sovereignty as unchallenged as our own.

"What America is bound to fight for when her time comes is nothing more nor less than her self-respect.

To Be Land of Promise

"It is probably a fortunate circumstance that America has been cried awake by voices in the disturbed and reddened night when fire sweeps sullenly from continent to continent; and it may be that in this red flame of light there will result again that ideal figure of America holding up her hand of hope and guidance to the people of the world, saying, 'I stand ready to counsel and to help; I stand ready to assert whenever the flame is quited, those infinite principles of rectitude and peace which alone can bring happiness, and liberty to mankind."

Another Busy Day

Today was another full one for the executive. Enroute to Des Moines, Iowa, where he will speak in the Coliseum tonight, the president was to make speeches from the rear of his car at Davenport, Iowa City, Grinnell and Newton. He is to arrive in Des Moines about 7 p. m. tonight.

INDIAN LIQUOR LAW IS UPHELD

State Supreme Court Affirms Lower Court Decision in Case of Green Bay Man

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 1.—The supreme court today upheld the state law prohibiting the sale of liquor to Indians. In the case of Michael Dagan of Green Bay against the state, appealing the decision of the lower court in which he was found guilty of selling liquor to an Indian and contending that the Indian came under the "excepting clause," which excepts civilized persons of Indian descent not members of any tribe, the court declared this not the case and the former decision was affirmed.

The Federal Rubber company of Milwaukee won its appeal from the decision of the circuit court of Dane county granting John Havolle, an employe, compensation for injury. A fellow employe in cleaning the defendant's clothes with an air hose, which was prohibited by the company, seriously injured him. The court held that this accident "was not incident to and growing out of employment."

In the case of Jennie I. Page against the Modern Woodmen of America, appealed the latter, for death benefit on an insurance policy on the life of her husband, who disappeared eleven years ago, the court found the circuit court of Polk county in error for not ordering the plaintiff judgment for recovery of amount due, $2,000 on the benefit certificate. It was decided that the time which has elapsed since the time of the disappearance is "legal presumption of death."

REGISTER COMPANY WARNED NOT TO USE RESTRAINT METHODS

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 1.—The federal district court here today entered a decree with the consent of the National Cash Register company, finding the company and its officers "had violated the federal anti-trust act by combining to restrain and attempting to monopolize interstate trade and commerce in cash registers."

The decree sets forth the means employed by the company to accomplish its object and specifically forbids the use of any of those means in the future.

Use "Tiz" for puffed-up, burning, aching, calloused feet and corns.

Why go limping around with aching, puffed-up feet—feet so tired, chafed, sore and swollen you can hardly get your shoes on or off? Why don't you get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" from the drug store now and gladden your tortured feet?

"Tiz" makes your feet glow with comfort; takes down swellings and draws the soreness and misery right out of feet that chafe, smart and burn. "Tiz" instantly stops pain in corns, callouses and bunions. "Tiz" is glorious for tired, aching, sore feet. No more shoe tightness—no more foot torture.

Washington May Know by End of Week Whether Germany Will Agree to Demands

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Washington expects to know by Friday or Saturday whether Germany has seen fit to agree in full to America's Lusitania demands or whether the imperial government intends in its forthcoming memorandum to seek further to delay settlement through informal conversations between Secretary Lansing and Ambassador Bernstorff. That ultimate acquiescence by Germany is inevitable continued today to be the firm belief in official circles, despite the "grave but not serious" situation which Secretary Lansing and President Wilson have said exists.

In this connection and coincidental with the president's statement yesterday at Milwaukee, that "there is no sudden crisis" and that "nothing new has happened," the explanation by a high state department official of use of the term "grave situation" was recalled today. This official said the Lusitania situation could well be illustrated by an individual's illness.

"There is a crisis in any grave illness," he said. "It is approached slowly but surely. We expect the crisis to be passed safely."

TWO ARE KILLED IN FIGHT WHEN BOAT IS BOARDED

large on the seas. Once in the hands of the Teutons, the Appam was herself turned into a commerce raider, however, and is understood to have captured two enemy ships while enroute here What became of them is not known.

Captured January 15

The Appam was captured on January 15. Passengers expressed the belief that the raider was only a tramp German ship, but this has resulted in the supposition that a submarine may have captured the small British ship, put part of her crew aboard and then used the former English ship to bag the larger game.

The original raider resumed her business of attacking British vessels after taking the Appam, sinking at least one in view of the liner. The vessel sunk, according to all accounts, was an Australian freighter laden with meat. The freighter showed fight and several of her crew were injured. The German tramp put them aboard the Appam, took over the cargo of meat and steamed away, leaving the Appam to proceed to Norfolk in charge of the prize crew.

Just how much of a fight the Appam put up before surrendering is disputed. Captain Harrison says surrender was immediate, since he had only one three-inch gun with which to resist the raider's attack and that it was unmounted. Some passengers say the British liner opened fire in answer to the first shot across her bows. The United States government will have the point to settle. If it is ascertained that the Appam was used by the Germans as an armed ship internment will be necessary.

The Appam passengers relate that the raider placed 138 prisoners from other ships on board and that these prisoners' stories indicate the raider had sunk at least seven other vessels.

The Appam is expected to go into Newport News tonight, in which case, since she seems little damaged, save for a bent plate or two, she must leave soon or be interned permanently. Only twenty-four hours can be allowed her in port, unless her condition calls for repairs that will require longer. It is believed she will intern.

There is the wildest speculation as to the identity of the mysterious raider. Many here think she may be the Will-o'-the-Wisp boat reported several times in the Gulf of Mexico, just after the escape of the officers from the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, aboard the yacht Eclipse. It is suggested she may have picked them up off the capes. A remark by Lieutenant Berg, prize crew commander, that he had come into this port because he knew he would get decent treatment, strengthened this theory.

Crew is Killed

All of the crew of the Clan Mc Tavish, the vessel which showed fight when halted by the raider Moewe, were killed except the four injured put on the Appam, according to the United States immigration officer, who just returned from the Appam.

He reported he was told that the Germans in charge, fearful of the 445 British subjects over whom they had charge, planted bombs all about the ship and passed the word that mutiny would be met by the explosion of these bombs.

BUFFALO MURDER MYSTERY UNSOLVED

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 1.—Nearing death today at the Sisters' hospital, Miss Grace Teiper, 26, probably will never be able to clear up the mysterious elements in the murder of her mother, Mrs. Agnes M. Teiper and her brother, Frederick, in a stranded automobile two miles from Buffalo early Monday.

John Edward Teiper, the surviving son, who declared the party was attacked by a negro hold-up man, is under surveillance of a deputy sheriff at his home in Orchard Place. District Attorney Dudley said Teiper is wanted as a material witness.

Since she whispered in response to to a question as to who committed the crime: "Nobody did it." No word has come from the dying girl.

lin squadron over Belgium, Amsterdam reported. London experts believe the aeroplanes were Fokkers, assigned to accompany the Zeppelin raiders and give battle to English aeroplanes which may climb into the heavens to attack the dirigibles.

Raid Not Unexpected

The raid was not entirely unexpected. All the newspapers predicted another air invasion, following the visits to English east coast towns by German aeroplanes last week. It was realized that these flights were for the purpose of "feeling out" England's new air defenses, which the Times pointed out, are in process of development and by no means perfect.

Berlin Jubilant

A Rotterdam dispatch today said that there was great rejoicing in Berlin over the Zeppelin attacks on Paris, but that the Berliners were eager for another raid on London.

A squadron of twenty Zeppelins, some of them equipped with the new silent motors, has been maneuvering over Belgium for several days, preparing for a great "air drive" on London, according to Amsterdam dispatches.

Five Killed?

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—On the basis of a cable dispatch from its London correspondent, the New York Tribune today stated that in all probability the Zeppelin fleet that raided England Monday night bombarded London, killing five persons in the streets. The cable read:

"LONDON, Feb. 1. — Eleven deaths reported England yesterday due lightning restrictions. Five of tragedies occurred in London streets, three of victims soldiers."

Aimed at Great Centers

"The above dispatch refers undoubtedly to the Zeppelin raid on England," said the Tribune. "Its unusual wording is the attempt of the Tribune's correspondent to get the news past the censor. 'Lightning' is probably 'lighting' and means the order to keep out lights saved many lives."

It is evident from the statement passed by the British censor that 'eastern, midland and northeastern' counties were attacked, that the Zeppelins aimed at the great manufacturing and shipping centers, stretching from London northward to the Tyne. In this district are many of the largest munition works in England.

Y. W. C. A. HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Reports Heard and Directors Chosen at Session at Association Building Last Night

GENERAL SECRETARY IS NEEDED

Directors Now Endeavoring to Secure Trained Head to Carry on the Work of the Institution

The annual business meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association was held at the association building last evening. Reports from the various departments were heard and a number of directors were chosen.

Mesdames George Bradish, A. Chubb, Lilian Finch, C. F. Emery, L. C. Colman, and A. Gunderson and Dr. Sara Nimocks, whose terms have expired, were re-elected, and Mrs. Harry Spence was chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Otto Schlabach.

Association Handicapped

The local association has been laboring under a disadvantage for the greater part of the past year, the general secretary, Miss Frances Goodhue, having been forced to resign her position on account of ill health. Since that time, Miss Ada Ganschow, physical director of the institution, has been acting secretary, and has been assisted by Miss Petra Peterson. Despite the handicap of having had to work short handed the association has more than held its own, however, and there is no doubt that with the coming of a secretary the organization will again prosper. Efforts are being made to fill the vacancy, the board being now in correspondence with a secretary whom it is hoped can be secured for the La Crosse association.

Thank All Who Helped

The report of the Board of Directors, dealing with the work in general, was presented by Mrs. A. Chubb, secretary to the board, and displayed a spirit of optimism which augurs well for the future of the association. In this report the board extended their thanks for the gifts and donations to the institution during the year. Appreciation of the efforts of various other co-operating agencies—the telephone management, the W. B. U., the Majestic theater, ethe newspapers, clubs and societies and private individuals—was expressed in the report.

Mrs. F. C. Suiter presented the report of the house committee which told of various improvements made in the association home during the past year.

A Hard Struggle

The report of the general secretary, Miss Ada Ganschow, told of the work of the fiscal year closing January 31. "This year marks the closing of a hard struggle for the board members of the La Crosse association," begins the report. "In the month of January, 1915, Miss Frances Goodhue, then general secretary, was taken home ill. Miss Petra Peterson then came to the association to help. Miss Peterson left December 1st. Some of our work has been very successful while in some of it we have failed. There is no doubt, however, that the association will again flourish as soon as a competent trained secretary assumes the head."

Thirty social events were held at the association during the year. These included three picnics, one doll party for the juniors, sixteen supper parties, one theater party, three house parties and six general parties. The greater number of these were dress-up parties, the annual Hallowe'en and Christmas parties being among the most enjoyable and best attended. The La Crosse telephone girls have a supper party at the Y. W. once every month.

Physical Work

The gymnasium work of the Y. W. C. A. has been discontinued, following the inauguration of free classes in physical work for girls at the high school. However, the juniors are given gymnasium work every Saturday afternoon, and a class of girls meets every Friday evening. Classes in physical work were conducted at Bethany Chapel during the spring of the year.

"The association building is a home for girls," continues the report. "At present we have eighteen girls living at the house. Three of these are help and one secretary. All but four of these girls take their meals at the association. With the house we have a public boarding department. We serve fifteen cent breakfasts and suppers. Extras can be had at supper for two, three and five cents. At noon we serve cafeteria. We have served breakfasts to 4,027 people with an average attendance of twelve at each meal, dinners to 7,724 people with an average attendance of twenty at each meal, and suppers to 6,367 with an average attendance of eighteen at each meal. We have served meals to 18,118 people making an average attendance of seventeen at each meal or fifty people a day. This does not include help."

Positions Filled

Of 374 calls for work coming in to the association, 257 have been placed in general housework. Seven calls for factory help have been filled. Three hundred and eighty-four transients have been entertained at the association during the year. A class in English for foreign speaking girls meets at the Y under the direction of Miss Ellen Gustad, and there are sewing classes for juniors on Saturday afternoons, in charge of Mrs. F. P. Marles. A club of girls under the name of the Daughters of the Colonial Hearth meet every Tuesday afternoon.

During the fall months vesper services were conducted at half-past four on Sunday afternoons, which, however, were discontinued shortly before the holidays. Sunday mornings the girls of the house have a song service. During the year twenty-six services have been held, with an average attendance of fifteen. A Bible class, to meet Sunday afternoons at the vesper hour, is now contemplated.

REUTER RECITAL PLEASES SPARTA

Big Audience at Sidney Delighted by Violinist and Accompanying Artists at Recital Friday

SPARTA, Wis., Feb. 1.—(Special.)—Jacob Reuter, violin virtuoso, entertained a large audience at the Sidney last Friday evening in a recital which completely captured his listeners. Enthusiastic applause greeted all of the numbers on the program, Miss Louise Carlton, soprano, James R. Kerr and Oscar Wehrley, who assisted Mr. Reuter, winning large appreciation.

Mr. Reuter played as his opening number, the Belgian master Leonard's beautiful concerto. Then followed works from his own pen, "Nocturno" and "Spanish Caprice." Then, "The Language of the Flowers", "The Rose", "The Violet", "The Lily of the Valley", and the "Forget-me-not". Mr. Reuter finished the program with his own "Hungarian Fantaisie"

Miss Carlton's charming voice was never heard to better advantage. Every one of her group of numbers were splendidly arranged and exquisitely sung

Mr. James R. Kerr is a great favorite with Spartans. His fine bass voice was heard to best advantage in that mighty and wonderful, "Honor and Arms", from Handel's "Samson". His other two numbers were splendidly given and enthusiastic applause followed.

Mr. Oscar Wehrley, a Wausau pianist, who played all the accompaniments for Mr. Reuter, two piano solos, Prelude-Rachmanninof, and Raff's Song, came to the rescue in the accompaniments for the two singers, Mr. Rawstron being unable to appear.

A Delightful Surprise—for Both

"I was a good girl, mamma," announced Lucille on her return from the first party, "and talked nice all the time."

"And did you say something nice to Mrs. Appleby before leaving?" asked her mother.

"I sure did," said Lucille proudly; "I said, 'I had a lovely time, Mrs. Appleby, and had lots more to eat than I expected.'"

Most people would rather listen to undeserved praise than to merited criticism.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

WHY NOT?

KC is pure. KC is healthful. It really does make lighter, nicer biscuits, cakes and pastry than the old fashioned single acting baking powders.

And you pay only a fair price for it. No baking powder should sell for more.

QUICKLY STOPS HEAD COLDS AND SNUFFLES

Catarrhal Germs Cause of Most Colds. New Germicidal Air Treatment Best Remedy For These Common Ailments

Reliable authorities say that upwards of 90 per cent of the so-called colds in the head and throat are in reality dangerous indications of the presence of acute catarrh. When you hear a person sneeze or cough its almost certain they are throwing catarrh germs into the air for some other person to breathe and its just as certain that the person breathing these germs will soon have catarrh or a catarrhal cold. The time to make these germs harmless and drive out your catarrhal cold is the very instant you feel a desire to sneeze or cough, or start to snuffle and wipe your nose every few minutes.

The quickest and surest way to stop a head cold and drive catarrh germs out of your system is to pour a few drops of the oil of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) into one of the Hyomei inhaling devices which comes with each large package and place the inhaler between your lips and breathe the germicidal but pleasant smelling air into your nose, throat and lungs. This air utterly destroys all catarrh germ life, quickly opens the closed air passages, makes breathing easy, clears your stuffed up head, cleans out your throat and ends your snuffling and nose blowing. There certainly is no quicker or more satisfactory way of breaking up a cold, even after it is well started, and a few weeks' use will do away with all danger of chronic catarrh. Sold by reputable druggists everywhere who usually agree to return the full purchase price to any who use it and are not satisfied. In buying Hyomei for the first time be very sure to get the large size which contains the inhaler as this is very essential for best results.

MAGNATES ARRAIGNED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Intimating that the greed of "war trust masters" is behind republican support of preparedness, and charging that the two are seeking to betray the president, Representative Henry of Texas, on Saturday denounced Republican Leader Mann's support of an army of 500,000.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

LAMAR MUST SERVE FOR IMPERSONATING SOLON OVER WIRE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The conviction of David Lamar, the "Wolf of Wall street," for impersonating a member of congress, was sustained by the supreme court Monday when his motion to dismiss the indictment was denied.

Lamar probably will be taken to Atlanta within thirty days.

He was convicted of impersonating Congressman Palmer of Pennsylvania in conversations by telephone from Washington with Lewis Cass Ledyard, Judge Robert Lovett and other Wall street men in June, 1913, during the money trust investigation. Lamar told the Wall street men that he (in the role of Palmer) was in position to do them a good deal of good.

The government two weeks ago filed a motion to dismiss Lamar's appeal, which was based on a technical contention.

DEATH CALLS OLD PIONEER WOMAN OF HOUSTON COUNTY

Mrs. John S. Harris of La Crescent and Houston Is Called Away at Ripe Age of 85 Years

WIDOW OF LATE JOHN S. HARRIS

Family Were Important Factor in Early Growth and History of Village and County

LA CRESCENT, Feb. 1.—The funeral of Mrs. John S. Harris, 85, pioneer resident of this city, took place yesterday from the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. B. Webster. Rev. Bantley, pastor of the Rushford Presbyterian church, presided, and Mrs. Harris was laid away in the La Crescent cemetery, to the care of which her son, Frank I. Harris, has for years voluntarily devoted much time.

Mrs. Harris passed away at the home of another daughter, Ida M., now Mrs. D. W. Robinson, of Houston. An attack of grippe developed pneumonia, followed by a paralytic stroke. She had been ill since New Year's day.

Family Prominent

Mrs. Harris was the widow of the late John S. Harris, first La Crescent gardner, whose enterprise was emulated by others until La Crescent became completely surrounded by truck and fruit gardens. He was one of the founders of the Minnesota State Horticultural society, and served for many years as its president. Some years ago he propagated an unusually large and lucious strawberry, the "princess", which became widely cultivated in the northwest. Mr. Harris was a Presbyterian and for many years served as president of the Sunday school of that church in La Crescent.

Interested in History

An avocation of Mr. Harris was the writing of history, and many of his papers are still extant in the records of the state historical societies of both Minnesota and Wisconsin.

At the time of her death Mrs. Harris was the oldest member of the La Crescent Presbyterian, the historic church founded by the late famous Rev. Sheldon Jackson, Alaskan missionary. She had been a member for fifty-two years.

Surviving Mrs. Harris are two sons and two daughters, with their families; Frank I. Harris, La Crescent gardner and horticulturalist; E. E. Harris, instructor in the Onalaska Agricultural college; Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Webster.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

An Easy Way To Get Fat And Be Strong

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh creams," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich, fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Sargol and has been termed the greatest of flesh-builders. Sargol aims through regenerative, re-constructive powers to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of your food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken-down cells and tissues of your body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about neck, shoulders and bust disappear and from 10 to 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh is added to the body. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient. Hoeschler Bros., La Crosse, and other leading druggists of this vicinity have it and will refund your money if you are not satisfied, as per the guarantee found in every package.

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

HOMMEY EASY FOR KILBANE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, packed another victory, but it was a hollow one. He had little difficulty in defeating Packey Hommey of New York last night at the Olympic and during the six rounds seldom extended himself.

Take Iron, Says Doctor, if You Want Plenty of "Stay There" Strength Like an Athlete!

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous Rundown People 200% Stronger in Two Weeks' Time, in Many Cases.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is one of the newer organic iron compounds. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, rundown conditions. It is dispensed in this city by Mariner's Pharmacy and all other druggists.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—The wheat market got over its scare for a while today and May and July crept slowly up to the average levels of the past few weeks. The bears, encouraged by a break in the cable markets, and weakness west, pressed the selling early and brought on a few more losses, but a reaction set in toward noon. May was up 1¼c from opening at $1.33¼ and July ⅝c up at $1.24⅝.

Corn was firmer on good commission house demand, May selling ⅝c up at 80⅛c, and July up ½c at 80c.

Oats were firm and independent of other grains on good demand.

Provisions were weak after a firm opening, on featureless trading.

War Office News of Fighting

PARIS

BARIS, Feb. 1.—After several days of violent activity, a lull in infantry fighting on the western front was reported by the war office this afternoon.

French artillery, the official statement said, has bombarded enemy camp effectively at Saint Leocade and in Lorraine. Enemy convoys in the Meuse region were shelled.

T. R. NOMINATED G. O. P. CANDIDATE BY NORMAL SOCIETY

That Theodore Roosevelt is the logical candidate for the presidency on the republican ticket, was the decision reached last night by the Eclectic Debating society after one of the most spirited debates of the year which ran far into the night. The seating capacity of the room was taxed to its limits and standing room was scarce. The decision of the formal debate was 2 to 1 for Teddy, while in the informal discussion the former idol received the unanimous decision despite the fact that the opposition advanced grave charges against the proposed candidate. Werner and Walker upheld the affirmative last night, and Clark and Johnson argued for other candidates. Professor Nurse led the Roosevelt faction in the heated discussion which followed the regular debate.

The semi- annual election of officers was the principal event in the secret session. Following are the officers of the society for the next term: President, Herbert Wheaton; vice president, William Walker; secretary, James Baker; treasurer, Clair Kirkpatrick; regent, Alex Nathanson; sergeant at arms, Clarence Vollmar.

STEVENS POINT MIX HAS BIG BEARING ON NORMAL HOPES

If Locals Win on Friday Night Chances Will Be Bright for Another Title

With two full months of practice and with practically all of last year's state championship team intact, the normal school quintet is now ready to tackle the regular normal conference schedule. The first game comes on Friday night of this week, when Stevens Point will furnish the major attraction of the evening. Stevens Point is in the same section of the state as is La Crosse and the outcome of Friday night's contest will go far in determining which team has the better chances of representing this section at Superior in the championship struggle in March.

A preliminary contest has been arranged for the Stevens Point game which should prove almost as interesting as the conference game. The Winona Y. M. C. A. aggregation has been given another chance at the Racquets. The normal second men are determined to duplicate the stunt they pulled at Winona some time ago, but the issue must remain suspended in the balance until Friday evening, as the up-river men are reported hungering for revenge because of their defeat and they promise to grab the bacon.

HIGHS WOULD TAKE REVENGE ON SPARTA FOR DEFEAT FRIDAY

Horne's Men Out for Blood After Losing Tough Scrap to Madison Last Week

Undiscouraged by the hard luck defeat received Friday at the hands of Madison, Horne's proteges are out for blood with Sparta. The red and yellow have always been dangerous in basket ball athletics as well as in foot ball and though La Crosse has won the majority of games played they have never won by larger margins. Last year Sparta was defeated in two games, but the year before La Crosse was lucky to get away with one. The game Friday will be played on the Armory floor at Sparta and La Crosse students are contemplating sending up a petition asking that the floor not be waxed until after the game. More than once it has been necessary for La Crosse players to buy powdered resin between halves so as to keep their feet the second period.

It is not yet decided which cambination will be used against Sparta, though it is probable that the one used in the second half of the Madison game will take the floor at the start. Stiff practices are held every night in anticipation of a hard game. The firsts, with Captain Kelly playing a new position, that of forward where he made six baskets, landed on the scrubs, 47 to 16.

Yesterday was a red letter day at the normal school. Fourteen of the members of the football squad of last season were presented with the big letter "L's," having participated in at least fifty per cent of the regular games. The football men who received the recognition of service were Captain Strum, Captain-elect Feinberg, Wachter, Marcou, Jackson, Coburn, Miller, Grounds, Miller, Skemp, La Fromboise, Holthaus and Grausnick.
